Administration Plans Relief for Jobless

PROPOSAL BEING WHIPPED INTO SHAPE FOR VOTE

Senator Murray Declares In Favor Of Cradle To Grave Benefits BEFORE CONGRESS SOON

Scheme Aims At Tiding Over Workers Now Employed In War Plants

WASHINGTON, May 8—The administration mapped plans today to submit alternative proposals to congress for a vast unemployment benefits scheme to tide over those who may be thrown out of work when the gigantic war production job ends.

The proposal, placed before the nation in a speech by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, now is being whipped into final shape for early presentation to congress.

"The plans probably will be given by Chairman A. J. Altmeyer of the Social Security board," said Sen. James E. Murray (D) Mont., chairman of a senate military affairs subcommittee.

"It is planned to offer alternative proposals from which congress can choose. Early consideration will be given to this and other demobilization legislation."

Altmeyer, it was expected, would reiterate a previous administration proposal for nationalization of unemployment insurance. Under present law the states operate unemployment insurance systems, with the aid of a uniform federal tax law.

States Opposed
"Since there will be opposition by states to nationalizing unemployment benefits other plans will be submitted," explained Murray. "Some of the states look with suspicion on nationalization."

The administration plan, if enacted in time, may supplant the "G I bill of rights" which was passed by the senate and now is pending in the house.

"Veterans Administrator Frank T. Hines has indicated that the plans should be consolidated," said Murray, "and they probably will unless the G I bill is passed first."

Murray said the "ideal thing" would be to pass the Wagner-Murray-Dingell "cradle to the grave" old-age, unemployment benefits and national health bill, but he voiced doubt over early success of this measure.

Fears Defeat
"To consider the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill we would have to hold extensive hearings and there would be strong opposition because of the national health insurance features," he said. "So this bill probably will have to wait."

Organized labor has placed before congress an unemployment insurance plan which provides benefits of $20 a week for a single person, $25 for one with one dependent, $30 for a person with two dependents and a maximum of $35 a week.

This plan is designed to aid the millions who will be thrown out of jobs with conversion to peace-time production.

FDR BACK FROM FISHING TRIP

President Plunges Again Into Complex War And Domestic Problems

WASHINGTON, May 8—President Roosevelt, his health restored by a month's fishing in the Carolina sun, plunged with renewed vigor today into the complex and international problems of a nation at war.

The chief executive summoned his congressional leaders to the White House today for a conference following his return Sunday from a four-week recuperative rest on the 23,000-acre plantation of Bernard M. Baruch near Georgetown, S. C.

With them, Mr. Roosevelt was to explore domestic problems that have developed in his absence and map out future congressional strategy during the coming weeks before congress recesses for the mid-Summer political conventions.

The President's return to Washington was viewed as a signal that the Allied invasion of Western Europe might now be touched off at any time. It was felt that Mr. Roosevelt would make a point to be in the White House at the hour Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied supreme commander, gives the command for the grand assault.

The chief executive's lengthy rest-cure in the Carolina sun and salt air cleared away the one obstacle to the important decision yet to be made—whether he will run for a fourth term.

Mr. Roosevelt seemed completely recovered from his long Winter illness of bronchitis and sinus trouble that followed his siege of influenza.

Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's personal physician, pronounced him in "excellent physical shape."

$50 DEMOCRATIC DINERS TO HEAR BOOSTS FOR FDR

NEW YORK, May 8 — The Thomas Jefferson dinner in New York tonight—at $50 a plate—will hear addresses by two leading advocates of a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, senate majority leader and National Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan will address the fund-raising dinner, New York State Chairman James A. Farley, who did not actively support the third term campaign, also will speak.

FAR REACHING DECISIONS LOOM IN WARD CASE

Federal Court To Rule On Claim FDR Overstepped His Authority

CIO TESTING STRENGTH

Ruling Also Nears On Permanent Injunction Asked By Government

CHICAGO, May 8—A week of far-reaching decisions was in prospect today in the finish fight between the government and Montgomery Ward & Co., big mail order house taken over for federal operation April 26.

In one of them, a federal court will decide in effect whether President Roosevelt exceeded his wartime powers in ordering seizure of the Chicago properties of the company, second largest of its kind in the United States.

In another, members of a CIO union, which recently called a 12-day strike at the Ward plant, will vote to determine if their organization still is entitled to exclusive collective bargaining rights with Montgomery Ward.

In the third, Paul D. Sowell, assistant to the operating manager of the company, will appear before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker to answer the charge of "taking certain property of the government with intent to commit a depredation."

The "property" in this case was a placard posted on the company bulletin board giving notice that dismissals made by company officials subsequent to April 26, date of seizure by the government, were void and that future dismissals likewise would be void unless approved by the government manager in charge.

Vital Ruling Wednesday
The most important decision by far, in its national implications, will come at 10 a. m. Wednesday when Federal Judge William H. Holly is to rule on the government's petition that the temporary injunction now in effect against company officials be made permanent.

The injunction restrains the company and 16 of its officials, including Board Chairman Sewell L. Avery, from interfering in any way with government operations of the plant and orders that the company turn over to Wayne Chatfield Taylor, undersecretary (Continued on Page Two)

TOKYO DENIES BRUTALITY TO U. S. PRISONERS

LONDON, May 8 — A radio Tokyo broadcast recorded by Reuters today flatly denied brutal treatment of American prisoners of war and charged "unjust" treatment of Japanese nationals in the United States.

The Japanese spokesman said that a lengthy note to the U. S. government was handed to the Swiss minister in Tokyo on May 3.

The note was quoted as setting forth how American nationals are being treated by the Japs and pointing out "errors and misunderstandings" on the part of the U. S. government.

At the same time, the broadcast said, the Swiss minister was given a note stating Japanese readiness to accept a shipment of relief supplies and mail for war prisoners from the United States.

The Tokyo broadcast said the Jap government took occasion to call the attention of the U. S. government to "the unjust treatment accorded to Japanese nationals by American authorities."

The broadcast enumerated alleged "concrete cases" of unjust treatment and demanded rectification of these cases.

EIGHT OHIOANS HEAD FOR FALL

Five Republicans And Three Democrats Will Lose In Governor Race

CLEVELAND, May 8—Eight gentlemen of Ohio today were taking the last ride before their fall.

The eight are the five Democrats and three Republicans who, by tomorrow night, will have failed to reach their goal of nomination for governor. Of course there will be literally hundreds of other unsuccessful candidates for more minor state and county offices also, but the main interest is focused on the gubernatorial primaries.

A poll of the six Democratic and four Republican candidates for nomination to the highest office in the state revealed that, if their confident predictions are taken at value, several are due for a rude awakening.

The answers of the candidates to the question, "what do you consider your chances to be Tuesday?" elicited answers ranging from an expression of gratitude for those votes that are received to categorical predictions of victory.

Their responses to a second question, perhaps more to the point—"Will you support your party's nominee, whoever he may be?"—brought unanimous avowals of support from the Republicans, but uncovered what could turn out to be a bad split among the Democrats.

Two of the Dems declared they would support all but one of the present candidates, two hedged on the question, and only James W. Huffman of Columbus and Lausche unequivocally promised support of the winner.

The division among the Democrats was not surprising, because many of them have resented Lausche's bid very deeply, in part because he has not been regarded as a party "regular."

DAD PROPOSES FOR ENSIGN SON AWAY AT WAR

NUTLEY, N. J., May 8—"John" couldn't speak for himself so his father spoke up and the deal was made.

"John" it was revealed today, was Ensign Marvin A. Kierstead, son of Undersheriff Wilson H. Kierstead of Nutley. With his son away to war, Kierstead senior popped the marriage question.

Elizabeth Walthour of East Orange, N. J., accepted and the father put the ring on her finger that binds her to his son.

BRIDEGROOM, 14, PIN-UP BOY OF JAILED WOMEN

DENVER, May 8—Ellsworth (Sonny) Wisecarver, 14-year-old groom of Elaine Monferdi Wisecarver, 21-year-old Los Angeles woman, accepted with becoming modesty today the discovery that he is the "number one pin-up" boy of the women in the Denver county jail.

This somewhat dubious honor was voted him by the women inmates who have heard Elaine tell glowing accounts of their romance, a romance which started in Los Angeles and ended in the Denver jail.

Elaine, who with "Sonny" is awaiting the arrival of detectives who will return them to Los Angeles, said, "I'm no slick chick, I'm just a girl in love."

Elaine, mother of two small children, will face child stealing charges in California, and Sonny will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

HUSBAND AND WIFE BOTH RUN FOR GOVERNOR

ALBUQUERQUE N. M., May 8—Robert Peterson of Albuquerque was expected to file today for the GOP nomination for governor of New Mexico, which will place him in the peculiar position of running for office against his wife, Mrs. Edna Peterson, who has filed for governor on the Democratic ticket.

Peterson faces several obstacles. As a former Democrat, he reportedly is not eligible to run on the Republican ticket because he has not been registered as a Republican for a full year.

Peterson said nevertheless he would present to the secretary of state in Santa Fe today a petition with 560 signatures, requesting that he be placed on the GOP slate. If the secretary refuses to recognize the petition, Peterson said he would go to the supreme court, and if that fails, he said, "I'll enter the race as a write-in candidate. I'll fight to the last ditch."

Mrs. Peterson, not to be outdone, said that she would campaign against all comers, including incumbent Gov. John J. Dempsey, and added that she plans to place several mines in hubby's "last ditch."

Peterson said he and his wife were filing candidacies for the governorship of New Mexico "in order to combat machine politics in the state."

TITO STARTS DRIVE
LONDON, May 8 — Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz's Yugoslavian Partisans, having crippled an abortive German offensive, seized the initiative today and launched a strong drive which ousted the enemy from several important villages.

HULL, BARKLEY GAINING FAVOR

Secretary Of State First Choice For Presidency If FDR Retires

WASHINGTON, May 8—Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Sen. Alben W. Barkley are overwhelming favorites today among Democratic congressional leaders for the Democratic presidential nomination in event President Roosevelt refuses to try for a fourth term.

Hull would be the almost unanimous choice of Capitol Hill Democrats were it not for his age. He will be 73 next October. Despite this, Democratic chieftains made him their first choice for the 1944 nomination, if Roosevelt retires, with Barkley a very close second.

Of the scores of Democrats interviewed, none mentioned Vice President Henry A. Wallace or Paul V. McNutt, war manpower director, who had a tremendous following four years ago.

There are two schools of thought among Capitol Democrats on the part Mr. Roosevelt will play in the Democratic convention if he is not a candidate. One school says the President will dictate the name of the next Democratic nominee. The second school declares he will have no such influence and that the convention will reject any dictation in the naming of the nominee.

One influential Democratic leader in the second school observed: "The President cannot dictate his successor. If he should say, 'take this man,' it is my sober (Continued on Page Two)

ALLIES TURNING OUT PLENTY OF AXIS BLASTERS

SHEFFIELD, England, May 8—American and British production lines today are turning out at least 14½ complete airplanes each hour.

Britain's first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, speaking in Sheffield, announced that American and British aircraft plants last year achieved that figure by manufacturing more than 127,000 planes.

In addition to the aircraft production, Alexander said, factories and assembly lines are turning out every hour nine field guns, nearly 106,000 rounds of artillery ammunition, and nearly 3,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition.

In small arms to the production figures of last year, Alexander revealed that the structure weight of airplanes turned out in March of this year was 30 percent over that of a year ago, and 20 percent over the highest level reached last Fall.

Draft Chief, State Aides Map Action

Hershey Seeks To Remove Confusion And Promote Uniform Compliance

WASHINGTON, May 8—Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey reviewed recent selective service action with the 48 state draft directors today in an effort to eliminate confusion and promote uniform national compliance with orders from Washington.

Some 53 local officials, including selective service representatives from Hawaii, Alaska and other United States territories, came to the capital for a three-day series of conferences with the national draft chief that will touch on the whole field of selective service problems.

Lieut. Col. James T. Coatsworth, aide to Hershey, said no new policy decisions will be formulated at the sessions. The principal task will be to iron out conflicting handling of present deferment regulation.

Despite instructions from national headquarters to local draft boards some men over 26 in essential activities are receiving induction notices daily. Several weeks ago Hershey banned the induction of older men until the under-26 category had been exhausted. Men over 26 not in essential activities are subject to call at any time, although these too are not supposed to be processed until the supply of younger men is substantially exhausted.

Moreover, national selective service officials have advised men over 26 in essential activities who are ordered to report for induction during this interim period to file appeals for correction of any errors in classification.

The conferences in Washington also are expected to cover the recent action by the War Manpower Commission's inter-agency committee which drafted a list of approximately 14 highly essential activities in which a limited number of deferments for even men 22 to 26 are to be authorized. State directors were instructed to grant such deferments, but WPB officials have asserted that such commitments are not being fully kept with resultant injurious effect on some vital war production activities.

Col. Coatsworth said the discussions may deal with the subject of how induction of men 26 to 30 are to be handled when the present ban is lifted. The selective service (Continued on Page Two)

R. W. HARMON GAINS SECOND LEAF CLUSTER

Serg. Richard W. Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Harmon, West Mount street, has won the second Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal, the presentation being made by his commander, Col. Hunter Harris, at the Eighth AAF base in England. Sgt. Harmon is top turret gunner on the Flying Fortress "Trouble Maker."

The citation accompanying the medal reads: "For exceptionally meritorious achievement while participating in five separate bomber combat missions over enemy occupied Continental Europe. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by Sgt. Harmon upon these occasions reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of the United States."

Sgt. Harmon was graduated from Circleville high school and later the University of Pittsburgh with an A. B. degree. He also attended law school at the University of Pittsburgh. He entered the AAF in September, 1942, and received his gunner's wings in June, 1943.

GOVERNOR URGES VOTE

COLUMBUS, May 8—Governor Bricker today urged all Ohio voters to go the polls in tomorrow's primary election. "As we fight around the world to preserve the ideals of freedom," said the governor, "let us make certain that we accept the responsibility of freedom and self-government through full use of the ballot."

SECOND RAID IN 24 HOURS HITS REICH CAPITAL

Deadly, Pre-Invasion Aerial Bombing Of Europe Roars Into 22nd Day

RAF MAKES NIGHT STRIKE

Soviets Blast Sevastopol And Kotka—Counter Blow By Japs Costly

By International News Service
American bombers and fighters, believed 2,000 strong, carried out a second daylight blasting of Berlin within 24 hours today as the deadly, pre-invasion aerial bombardment of Europe went into its 22nd consecutive day.

American Fortresses and Liberators with strong fighter cover also struck in the area of Brunswick, German aircraft production center, 110 miles west of Berlin.

Eighth Air Force headquarters said that "very strong forces of American Fortress and Liberator bombers took part in the blow at the heart of the Reich after night bombers from England and the Mediterranean carried out devastating assaults against Nazi supply centers and communication lines in France, Germany and Romania."

RAF Strikes

Night attacks by the RAF were made in strength. The air ministry said concentrated assaults were made on an airfield, buildings and an ammunition dump near Rennes, and that airfields and buildings at Nantes and Tours and an ammunition dump at Salbris, 35 miles south of Orleans, were blasted.

Military installations along the Normandy coast were hammered. A fresh blow was made against the chemical center of Leverkusen, six miles north of Cologne, and mines were laid in enemy waters.

From the Mediterranean, Wellington, Liberator and Halifax heavy bombers carried out a night raid on Bucharest. The planes were guided to the Romanian capital by fires left blazing by daylight raiders which had hit the city Sunday afternoon.

Romania Founded
The night raiders, their attack carrying the assault on Romanian targets beyond 48 hours, blasted railroad marshalling yards, factories, and other military installations.

Earlier raids over Bucharest resulted in the destruction of 30 Axis planes while two Allied heavy bombers and 12 other planes were reported missing.

Over Italy, north of Rome, eight Spitfires of the first tactical air force attacked 18 Messerschmitts. The Spitfires bagged nine of the Nazis in a four minute battle.

On the eastern front ground activity remained slow while planes of the Red air force struck at Sevastopol in the south and hit Kotka harbor, in the Finnish gulf, to the north.

Soviet forces claimed "some material damage" as a squadron of 20 fighter-escort dive-bombers attacked Kotka.

THIEF RETURNS TO APOLOGIZE AND IS NABBED

CHICAGO, May 8 — Courtesy may pay, but one couldn't convince 17-year-old James W. Renney of that today.

It was all on account of an excess of politeness that young Renney was in jail, charged with the holdup of a saloon.

Frank Suffredini, the owner, identified Renney as a gun-man who pointed a pistol at him while a confederate robbed the cash register of $50.

It was some 15 minutes after the departure of the two that Renney, obviously overtaken by the horrible thought he had omitted one of the social amenities, returned to make a profuse apology. This time, patrons seized the youth and called police. He carried an automatic pistol and wore a belt of 35 cartridges, police said.

Hun Sinks Ship

Action in the Black sea stepped up as Soviet torpedo boats sank three German transports totalling 7,000 tons. Russian bombers sank another 3,000 ton transport. Aircraft and torpedo boat action sank two German patrol craft and two high speed landing barges.

In Eastern India, a general Jap offensive along the entire Manipur Hills front was reported. Jap troops counter-attacking against British and Indian held positions were reported suffering heavy losses.

To the north, in Honan province of Central China, two Jap drives to gain control of vital communication lines encountered stubborn resistance from Chinese ground forces and American and Chinese planes.

In central Honan, Jap columns closing on Loyang, gateway to western China and important railway on the east-west Lunghai railroad, were reported checked at Lunyang, nine miles south of the ancient Chinese capital.

In the Southwest Pacific, Gen. MacArthur's communique reported air strikes against Jap positions from the Dutch East Indies to the Solomons.

Australian - manned Corsair bombers, striking deep into the Dutch East Indies, damaged a 5,000 ton freighter and dispersed a Jap convoy off Mangole Island.

Other bombers and fighters ripped at the whole north New Guinea coast, struck at New Britain and New Ireland, and in the Solomons, harassed Jap positions on Bougainville and Buka.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE NECESSITY EXPLAINED

(Editor's Note—Circleville's Kiwanis club is seeking to increase church and Sunday school attendance in the county, believing that such an accomplishment would go a long way toward solving the juvenile delinquency problem. The club has asked ministers of the county to present arguments for church attendance and the third of this series appears below.)

BY THE REV. L. C. SHERBURNE

I have been asked to say something about what St. Philip's Church School is trying to do to meet the religious needs of the children of the Pickaway County Home. This, I shall attempt to do very briefly.

These children came to us over ten years ago, and have been welcome charges ever since. They were received without our asking any financial aid from the county to defray expenses. Later, however, without any solicitation on our part, the county made a substantial donation to help meet our needs. This was followed, still later, by other financial gifts. Of these, we have been most appreciative.

We found these children not without religious training, and we have sought to build upon foundations already laid. No attempt, however, has been made to impose our peculiar type of religion. Many have received Christian baptism, but Confirmations have been few. The rector does not believe in proselyting.

In addition to religious worship and instruction, wholesome entertainment has been provided. From time to time, parties have been held in the Parish house, and these, the children have seemed greatly to enjoy.

I want to take this opportunity to express our great debt of appreciation and gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. George Goodchild, who until very recently, were in charge of the Home. Their cooperation was fine. Mrs. Goodchild, from the very first gave constant, cheerful, and valued service as a teacher in the Church school. We are also finding the present superintendent and his wife very cooperative.

Two things seem to stand out and be worthy of note in this relation of the Children's Home with St. Philip's Church School. First, that the county officials, who are responsible for the welfare of these children, recognize the value of religious instruction and nurture; and second, that the children seem to consider it no hardship, but a real pleasure, to be required to attend the Church school. This opinion is confirmed by the fact that they are disappointed when anything happens to prevent their coming.

The opinion has been expressed to the writer of this article, that the county officials have set a good example, which may well be imitated by all parents and guardians of the young.

SAFETY FIRST PATTERSON FIELD, O.—Having captured the special wartime "Distinguished Service to Safety" award of the National Safety Council for its 1943 record, the Air Service Command has not rested on its laurels. ASC headquarters at Patterson Field shows that in the month of March it had slashed its accident frequency rate, bringing the ASC rate of accidents of a disabling nature for every million man-hours worked down to 7.25. The ASC is the maintenance and supply arm for the Army Air Force.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT NEW YORK.—The next-to-the-last act in the circus at Madison Square Garden is rather as a stirring affair, but Hannah, a seven-year-old from the country, thought it pretty dull. A man hung downward from a dizzy perch with a five-foot rope clenched in his teeth. Suspended at the other end was his partner, a woman, who whirled around and around. Breathless silence was broken by Hannah's piping treble. "When do they start to do their tricks," she demanded.

ENTERPRISE ALGIERS.—One of the world's largest match factories has just opened in Brazzaville. It was founded by a private concern with the support of the Office of the Commissioner of Colonies. This factory has a daily output of 30,000 match boxes; in July the production will attain 80,000 boxes daily—enough to supply the whole of Africa. In a few weeks, the first shipments will be made from Pointe Noire.

Hull Sinks Ship

Action in the Black Sea stepped up as Soviet torpedo boats sank three German transports totalling 7,000 tons. Russian bombers sank another 3,000 ton transport. Aircraft and torpedo boat action sank two German patrol craft and two high speed landing barges.

In Eastern India, a general Jap offensive along the entire Manipur Hills front was reported. Jap troops counter-attacking against British and Indian held positions were reported suffering heavy losses.

To the north, in Honan province of Central China, two Jap drives to gain control of vital communications lines encountered stubborn resistance from Chinese ground forces and American and Chinese planes.

In central Honan, Jap columns closing on Loyang, gateway to western China and important rail city on the east-west Lunghai railroad, were reported checked at Lunyang, nine miles south of the ancient Chinese capital.

In the Southwest Pacific, Gen. MacArthur's communique reported air strikes against Jap positions from the Dutch East Indies to the Solomons.

Australian - manned Corsair bombers, striking deep into the Dutch East Indies, damaged a 5,000 ton freighter and dispersed a Jap convoy off Mangole island.

Other bombers and fighters ripped at the whole north New Guinea coast, struck at New Britain and New Ireland, and in the Solomons, harassed Jap positions on Bougainville and Buka.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE NECESSITY EXPLAINED

(Editor's Note—Circleville's Kiwanis club is seeking to increase church and Sunday school attendance in the county, believing that such an accomplishment would go a long way toward solving the juvenile delinquency problem. The club has asked ministers of the county to present arguments for church attendance and the third of this series appears below.)

BY THE REV. L. C. SHERBURNE

I have been asked to say something about what St. Philip's Church School is trying to do to meet the religious needs of the children of the Pickaway County Home. This, I shall attempt to do very briefly.

These children came to us over ten years ago, and have been well-come charges ever since. They were received without our asking any financial aid from the county to defray expenses. Later, however, without any solicitation on our part, the county made a substantial donation to help meet our needs. This was followed, still later, by other financial gifts. Of these, we have been most appreciative.

We found these children not without religious training, and we have sought to build upon foundations already laid. No attempt, however, has been made to impose our peculiar type of religion. Many have received Christian baptism, but Confirmations have been few. The rector does not believe in proselytizing.

In addition to religious worship and instruction, wholesome entertainment has been provided. From time to time, parties have been held in the Parish house, and these, the children have seemed greatly to enjoy.

I want to take this opportunity to express our great debt of appreciation and gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. George Goodchild, who until very recently, were in charge of the Home. Their cooperation was fine. Mrs. Goodchild, from the very first gave constant, cheerful, and valued service as a teacher in the Church school. We are also finding the present superintendent and his wife very cooperative.

Two things seem to stand out and be worthy of note in this relation of the Children's Home with St. Philip's Church School. First, that the county officials, who are responsible for the welfare of these children, recognize the value of religious instruction and nurture; and second, that the children seem to consider it no hardship, but a real pleasure, to be required to attend the Church school. This opinion is confirmed by the fact that they are disappointed when anything happens to prevent their coming.

The opinion has been expressed to the writer of this article, that the county officials have set a good example, which may well be imitated by all parents and guardians of the young.

MISSING HEIR SOUGHT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Executors of the estate of William P. Styms, well-to-do interior decorator, who died recently at Port Chester at the age of 83, are instructed in his will to conduct a search for Walter, his brother, missing 35 years, and fight claims of relationship "which may be made by any other persons." The will provides that if the brother is not located within a year a $5,000 bequest provided for him shall go to the United hospital at Port Chester, already valued at $10,000. The estate amounted to approximately $200,000. Numerous persons and charities will receive sums ranging up to $10,000.

ENTERPRISE

ALGIERS—One of the world's largest match factories has just opened in Brazzaville. It was founded by a private concern with the support of the Office of the Commissioner of Colonies. This factory has a daily output of 30,000 match boxes; in July the production will attain 80,000 boxes daily—enough to supply the whole of Africa. In a few weeks, the first shipments will be made from Pointe Noire.

officer added, however, that the exact policy to be applied to this category has not yet been completed. Induction of men over 30 is regarded as unlikely this year, particularly in regards to those in essential jobs.

Gen. Hershey stated recently that the pool of men under 25 is expected to last until early Fall. Nearly one million 700 thousand registrants are now listed in this age group, considerably above original selective service estimates.

In line with established procedures, future draft calls will be adjusted in accordance with the number of men under 26 available in each state and local board area. Thus, the supply of younger men will be exhausted at approximately the same time throughout the nation. Adjustment of the calls will relieve the pressure on boards which have only a few men in the under 26 category.

Selective service officials discounted reports that some new classification or designation may be provided for older 1-A registrants. Complaints have been heard that the absenteeism rate among such men, who may not be called for some time but feel nevertheless they are on a direct route to induction, has increased lately. In addition, it has been reported that some of these 1-A men have found it difficult to secure work because of the reluctance of employers to hire men with an uncertain draft status.

Col. Coatsworth expressed belief, however, that such cases have been comparatively few and that no major problem exists at the present time.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT

NEW YORK—The next-to-the-last act in the circus at Madison Square Garden is rather as a stirring affair, but Hannah, a seven-year-old from the country, thought it pretty dull. A man hung downward from a dizzy perch with a five-foot rope clenched in his teeth. Suspended at the other end was his partner, a woman, who whirled around and around. Breathless silence was broken by Hannah's piping treble. "When do they start to do their tricks," she demanded.

PATTERSON FIELD, O.—Having captured the special wartime "Distinguished Service to Safety" award of the National Safety Council for its 1943 record, the Air Service Command has not rested on its laurels. ASC headquarters at Patterson Field shows that in the month of March it had slashed its accident frequency rate, bringing the ASC rate of accidents of a disabling nature for every million man-hours worked down to 7.25. The ASC is the maintenance and supply arm for the Army Air Force.

Federal Court To Rule On Claim FDR Overstepped His Authority

of commerce, its books and records, Taylor was named by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones to operate the plant for the government.

Judge Holly will have to rule at the same time on the company's motion that, rather than make the temporary injunction permanent, he dissolve it on the ground that President Roosevelt had no right, either in the Constitution or in his "reserve" wartime powers, to seize the plant.

Seizure Defended

Attorney General Francis Biddle, who came to Chicago to direct personally the government's fight, contended in hearings before Judge Holly that the President not only had a constitutional right to order the seizure, but that the right also was implied in his wartime powers.

The collective bargaining election in the plant will take place tomorrow under the supervision of the National Labor Relations board. Employees will vote in two units, the balloting to start at 6:30 a. m. and to conclude at 5:30 p. m. Members of the union, the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees, struck after Chairman Avery repeatedly had refused to obey a War Labor Board directive ordering the company to renew its contract with the union which expired last December 8.

Avery based his refusal on the contention that the union no longer represented a majority of the eligible employees, a point which tomorrow's election is designed to settle.

Sowell, described as the "right hand man" to the company's operating manager, will appear before U. S. Commissioner Walker Thursday.

He and his attorney, James C. Leaton, both described his arrest by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents as "high handed" and without justification.

Sowell declared that he removed the government bulletin notice in line of duty to study it in his office and to show it to other company officials so that they might conform to its directions. Attorney Leaton said:

"I can't see anything other than discharge under the facts of the case. Sowell was pursuing the duties assigned to him by Taylor (the government's manager in charge). For that matter, his duty was to take care of any releases or dismissals."

There is overwhelming belief among capitol Democrats that if Mr. Roosevelt does not run, the next nominee will be a sort of "middle-of-the-road" Democrat—neither a rabid New Dealer nor a red-hot anti-New Dealer. ## GRANDMOTHER'S BOND WITH THE FUTURE -WAR BONDS

• for your grandchildren,
the best in the world!

ORDINARILY, age brings certain privileges. One of the greatest of them, perhaps, is that of watching, from the sidelines, the growth and progress of our children's families.

Certainly one of the rewards of being a mother is becoming a grandmother—able to enjoy our sons' and daughters' children to the full, while leaving the responsibility for them in other hands.

The war, which has changed so many things, has changed this too. When the war took our sons—when it broke up our children's homes—it gave back to America's grandmothers responsibilities which we had passed on long ago. The privilege of growing older quietly has been denied the women of our generation while this war lasts.

For today, our grandchildren need our help. And it is in our power to give them greater help, perhaps, than any grandparents ever gave before.

We can give this help by buying War Bonds and Stamps—for our children's children. And no other single thing that we can do will help so much, or in so many different ways.

Every dollar put into War Bonds now does many all-important jobs today—and will do many more in the future.

War Bonds can help to bring fighting fathers back to their families next year—the year after—as soon as possible. War Bonds can provide those families now with aid in case of illness or emergency. War Bonds can help assure an education for a boy whose father comes back crippled—or does not come back at all. War Bonds can help to guarantee a busy, prosperous America for our sons when they return—an America in which our grandsons can find all the opportunities they need to lead the fullest, happiest lives in all the world.

The Grandmothers' War Bond League is simply a way of recognizing and uniting the millions of American grandmothers who are today buying War Bonds and Stamps for their grandchildren. Every one who buys a Bond or Stamp in a grandchild's name automatically becomes a member.

Join the Grandmothers' War Bond League today!

The Grandmothers' League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief of Staff. It is not a formal club. It is simply a roll of honor which grandmothers automatically belong to when they buy bonds, or start stamp albums, for their grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall urges every grandmother in America to help the fighting men today . . . and their children tomorrow, by joining the Grandmothers' War Bond League.

THE CHANNEL CROSSING

THAT water-borne invasion from Britain, which may be launched across the English channel any day now, will be a grand sight for those able to see it. It is a far greater undertaking than the famous Spanish Armada launched against England by Spain in the year 1588. The fate of Britain was at stake then, for Spain was a great sea power. But a great storm struck the heavy, lumbering Spanish fleet. The light English ships manned by clever seamen dashed in among them and, with the storm's help, wrought their destruction.

How will it be now, when the British and Americans have mastery of the sea, with the greatest fleet ever assembled, and the surface craft reinforced by an enormous air fleet to fight off the enemy in the narrow channel crossing? There will be submarines, too, producing an amazing example of what might be called four-dimensional warfare—by air, land, sea and sub-sea.

But with all this power, the Allies must still choose their weather lest, in the crossing, the treacherous English channel be jammed with wrecked water craft. The command of that expedition probably calls for the highest skill and most complex operation in naval history. And the maneuvering of defensive aircraft over the channel, by the Germans, will be a stern test of all their air power.

MEAT WITHOUT POINTS

THE first glorious reaction to the news of the pointlessness of meat was soon modified by the knowledge that 30 points in the book must be stretched to cover four weeks instead of two as they have been doing. But there is a great gain nevertheless. If the gain is put into cans on the shelf, instead of being eaten up all at once, some of it will last over into the next more pointed period.

In any case, the most thrifty American families may luxuriate in lamb chops and veal with mushrooms and whatnot for a while. And will they enjoy it? They certainly will. Moreover, besides the pleasure of having enough roast lamb or pork on the table for once without knowing they will have to go light from Wednesday on through the week, they will also have that wonderful consciousness of duty alone. They have earned this little indulgence by coming second to the fighting forces and by sharing what was left with other hungry people around the world. It's a nice feeling. A little more gravy and mint sauce, please!

EXCESSIVE ZEAL

SOME super-patriots would inflict further hardship on the Japanese-Americans who have not already been interned. They might ponder Admiral King's statement in his recent report, that there was no sabotage at Pearl Harbor, though the chances were plenty.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

MRS. ROOSEVELT CONDUCTS TOUR

WASHINGTON — The war time ban on sight-seeing in the White House was lifted the other day for one lucky visitor from Madison, Wis., who still can't believe that it wasn't all a dream. Here are the details which Mrs. Hayden Cady, whose husband recently came to Washington to work for the government, is breathlessly telling friends.

Mrs. Cady happened to be in the U. S. information center, a block from the executive mansion, when Mrs. Roosevelt popped in on an inspection visit.

"I must have looked kind of lonesome," relates Mrs. Cady, "for the First Lady came over and said hello. She was very nice and democratic, just like a neighbor back home. She asked me about my family and then, out of a clear sky, invited me to the White House."

What followed was the biggest thrill the Wisconsin lady ever experienced. Mrs. Roosevelt not only personally escorted her through the White House, but delivered a running travel talk that couldn't have been improved on by a professional guide.

Mrs. Cady, after being invited to play the new $17,000 Steinway piano recently presented to the White House, which she politely declined to do, was shown all the sights, from the bed in which Abraham Lincoln slept to a tea set that once belonged to Napoleon. Passing the suite which had been occupied by the king and queen of Great Britain during their American visit, Mrs. Roosevelt related:

"Before the king and queen arrived, we received suggestions from Scotland Yard regarding their safety. Among other things, a guard was stationed outside their suite 24 hours a day. That is a rule enforced in Buckingham palace, which is spread out over a greater area than the White House and is less easily guarded. I found this out on my London visit. Why, they even have messengers in the palace."

CHARACTERISTICS OF OCCUPANTS

The most interesting sight to Mrs. Cady was the First Lady's bedroom. Mrs. Roosevelt remarked that she frequently stays up late, reading a book or working on her voluminous mail. Ernest Hemingway's best-seller, "For Whom the Bell Tolls," was on a stand beside the bed.

"Many books are presented to the White House," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "They are kept downstairs in a library until we call for them. After we read them, the books are sent to the Roosevelt library at Hyde Park."

Like all old houses, Mrs. Roosevelt told her visitor, the White House had taken on the "characteristics of its occupants."

"I get to thinking about this late at night when I am reading or writing and the house is very quiet," she added. "Somehow, a house that has been lived in a lot, like this one, seems to inherit something from the lives of those who have been here before us. At least, that the way I feel about it. All presidents lead a hard life, Mrs. Cady, in peace or war."

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE GO ALONG making lists of foods that are "good for you"—such, notably, as carrots and spinach and milk. The question arises are any foods bad for you? Of course I don't mean frankly poisonous substances that may be eaten as foods by mistake, such as toadstools for mushrooms; or contaminated foods, such as cans that have botulism, or uncured meats that have trichina, or plain food poisoning from foods infected with germs. I mean good food that we eat regularly. Do any such common foods cause disease?

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Well, several have been accused from time to time. Tomatoes and cancer is one combination which we can dismiss as purely a mistake in statistics and reasoning. Just because a neighbor down the street used to eat lots of tomatoes and then came down with cancer is no proof.

Meat and salt, however, have come in for accusations that have some basis, and demand consideration. Meat, so the accusation runs, is not one of Nature's foods. Ergo when we eat it we are going against Nature and will suffer. Many doctors prohibit meat to their patients who have Bright's disease, high blood pressure, arthritis and gout, so by an argument equally fallacious it is concluded that meat causes these diseases. Personally I am convinced that meat does not cause any disease and that it is a wholesome and valuable and harmless part of man's diet. But is there any evidence for or against this view?

Meat and Blood Pressure
So far as the relationship between meat eating and high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease is concerned, we have, for instance, the evidence of Dr. William A. Thomas, who accompanied the McMillan Arctic Expedition and, with their diet in mind, examined a group of Eskimos. All Eskimos live practically entirely on meat from the time they are weaned. Babies are nursed by the mothers for four to six years until their teeth are strong enough to eat meat.

Dr. Thomas examined 142 adults between the ages of forty and sixty years. Of these only three had blood pressures which an American life insurance company would consider too high. In a group of nine Eskimos over sixty years of age none had a blood pressure over 140. Evidence of kidney or Bright's disease was present in only 13 of a group of 202 Eskimos over sixty years of age. This is below the average of most of our population who live on a mixed diet.

Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, offered to live in the climate of New York and eat an exclusively meat diet. He was examined regularly by physicians expert in such diseases and after two years there was no change in his blood pressure, no evidence of increased hardening of the arteries and no evidence of kidney damage in his urine.

Salt Not Harmful

Salt is another article of diet about which similar accusations have been made. The idea started in 1904 when Ambard and Beauregard, two French physicians, stated that blood pressure was influenced by the amount of salt in the diet. For a long time after this any unfortunate person who was found to have a blood pressure one millimeter over normal was not allowed to have enough salt to help get up a decent sweat. There is no record that this regimen ever did anybody any good. Later Berger and Feinberg, in a carefully controlled series of experiments, proved that blood pressure was not influenced to any appreciable extent either by removing salt from the diet, or adding it in excessive amount. A regular intake of salt is one of the basic necessities of animal life. Any excess you may take does no harm, but is excreted leaving no trace.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. M.:—Last summer I suffered a sunstroke and now get dizzy when over-tired or over-heated.

Answer: Persons who have ever had a sunstroke must ever afterwards be very careful about getting out on a hot day or overheated in houses. Also they are easily exhausted.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

They were crossing the floor at the beginning of the next dance when Selkirk and Irina found them. This lady says she would much rather dance with you," Selkirk told Colin.

"Oh, I didn't!" Irina protested. "I didn't say that. I said I hoped the good-looking gentleman with the good-looking girl would ask me to dance before the night was over."

Colin led her into the dance. "Angry?" she broke the silence. He looked down at her in surprise. "Why should I be?"

"Well, I haven't seen you." "I've been out on the trap line." "Is that the only reason?"

"No." Irina smiled. "I like you for saying that—even though it hurts a little. You and I should have the courage to be truthful. You want to avoid me until I become Mrs. Selkirk."

"When will that be?" "Never!" Colin stopped in his tracks. "Why not?"

"Come, dance." She pressed his arm. "People are watching." Mechanically he went on dancing. "Now," he heard her say, "now you think I've fallen in love with you—but I haven't. I'm very fond of you, Colin, but that's not why I can't marry Rodney Selkirk."

"Why can't you?" "Because I am one of those who are neither very strong nor very weak, not very bad and not very good. If I were a little harder inside I might marry Rod and not care if I broke his heart. You don't know that, but some day you will, and then you'll say I was right."

Colin looked across the room at Selkirk, dancing with Blair. "Does he know?"

"Not yet." Twice in silence they circled the room, then he asked, "What are you going to do?"

"I haven't thought. There are some people whose future is decided without their doing much about it. I'm one of them." She stopped. He felt the sudden tightening of her arm, saw her eyes fixed beyond his shoulder, and even before he turned he heard her whispered warning, "Tennant!"

The door had opened, and framed against the snow, Nate Tennant stood, the hood of his parka thrown back, his hair and eyebrows white with frost.

Only his eyes moved while he stood there, and the utter cold of arctic night crept in through the open door. The beat of the music ceased, the big room was suddenly silent. Then Tennant stepped forward. He had seen Colin.

For a second Tennant stood watching him with narrow, savage eyes; and now he jerked his hand toward the blue-white snow beyond the door. "Come outside, Rae!"

Colin made no move. "We can talk here," he answered. "I didn't come for talk." As if the very sound of Colin's voice swept him to new fury, Tennant raised a clenched hand. "Come out and take it, you mealy-mouthed—" "Nate!" Blair had stepped between them, but Tennant's eyes were fixed on Colin as Nate sneered. "Still hiding behind women, are you?"

Colin lifted Blair and set her aside. "I'm not hiding behind anyone. Why should I?"

Hands at his sides, Colin took a step forward, then quietly closed the door. Dancers and spectators had drawn back and now they stood tense and breathless, their eyes on the two antagonists.

Then Tennant spoke. "So you had to go behind my back to gang up on Olsen for what he did to Alec."

"Alec had nothing to do with this," Colin answered. "Olsen's a poisoner."

"That's your story. Olsen says you planted those poisoned foxes on him."

"Why didn't he tell us that this morning?" "He didn't have a chance. You and Selkirk's trappers were ready to jump him."

Fuzzled, Colin looked at Nate. Was he really being taken in by lies?

From the kitchen came an unexpected diversion as Ma Corrigan bustled in. "So it's a fight, is it?" Hands on her hips, she confronted Tennant. "Nate, I've known you ever since you were a wet-nosed baby, but if you came here tonight to stir up trouble, I'm through with you!"

Through bloodshot eyes Nate looked at Colin, then suddenly laughed. "How the women do fly to your rescue, Rae!" He turned to Irina and laughed again. "Well, why don't you stand up for him too—or do you only come to life when you're in his cap?"

The vicious words had scarcely ceased when Blair, with her open hand, struck Tennant across the face. And contempt edged her voice: "You make me ashamed I ever knew you."

Her voice, more than the blow itself, crimsoned Tennant's cheeks, and for one irresolute moment he stared about him. Then he lowered his head and took a step toward Colin.

No one moved; no one seemed to breathe. Tennant's eyes were glassy with hate, and every tendon of his neck had knotted. Colin waited for the first lashing blow—but it never came.

Instead, Tennant was speaking. "You're wondering why I don't take you apart, aren't you, Rae?" The deep, rumbling voice filled the room. "You know I can do it, don't you? Well, I'm fool enough to give you the same chance you gave Olsen: Get out of here in twenty-four hours, and don't let me see you in Learmonth again. Next time we meet, I'm going to get you, if I have to kill you."

Nate turned to go, but standing before him Selkirk barred the way. Dwarfed by Tennant's towering frame, the graying man seemed more than ever fragile as he stood in the doorway.

Slowly Selkirk spoke: "I could feel sorry for you, Nate, except that it's hard to feel sorry for a coward. Tonight you've struck at a woman—you've tried to ruin a person who never harmed you—and that's pretty low, even for you. Here in Learmonth you're done."

As if from pronouncing judgment, the coldly dispassionate voice ceased. In that breathless room each one waited—no man had ever spoken to Tennant in that fashion. But the trapper made no move. Something—either the quality of Selkirk's voice or Rod's utter lack of fear—held Nate as no display of physical force could hold him.

Suddenly Nate's hand rose; a whispered gasp rustled through the room, and Colin stepped to Selkirk's side.

But Tennant's hand was pointing at Rae. And once again his eyes were blazing. "You're the one I'm dealing with." Nate pulled his parka tight. "Don't let me see you again—ever!"

He went out into the night. Almost at once the room was filled with an excited buzz of voices, and at a word from Ma Corrigan the little orchestra began playing. But the shadow remained: the spirit of the dance was broken.

Across the room, Selkirk went into the little sun porch where Ma Corrigan nursed her plants through the winter, and a moment later Colin followed. In the semidarkness, he found Selkirk standing close to the frosted window, hands clasped behind him, head bowed.

"Rod," he began, "what Nate said tonight wasn't—"

But Selkirk stopped him. "What Nate said tonight, Colin, doesn't matter." He laid both hands on Rae's shoulders. "Nate didn't hurt me tonight. I suppose there's only one really tragic hurt in the world—to love and not be loved."

Colin felt the grasp on his shoulders tighten. "What I want to say is—watch out for Tennant. I couldn't bear anything happening to you."

Together they walked back into the room where Ma Corrigan was serving cakes and coffee. Blair stood by the stove, her thoughts far distant from the dance. Colin walked over to her.

"Let's get out of this," he said. "I'll take you home."

Five minutes later, with Blair seated behind his dog team, he was heading for the school. The dogs whined when their feet touched the glassy ice, and uneasily the lead dog sniffed the air. Looking up, Colin saw that the sky had filled with clouds.

White and lonely the darkened hall loomed up beneath the newly fallen snow, as Colin drove directly to Blair's cabin. A solitary light was burning there, a few logs crackled in the stove. Without a word Blair sat down before the fire. Her face was still pale, and he could see the apprehension in her eyes.

For Monday, May 8

MONDAY'S astrological forecast holds auguries of a very active and enterprising day, with major events under high tension for reaching the major objectives and ambitions. There is a noted tempo under which the energies and forces are under great stimuli for aggressive action in wholly constructive directions. However, the accented tendency to "spurge," to be lavish with expenditures in putting over ambitious programs may prove a handicap in attaining desired goals.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves keyed to high levels of attainments, with important objectives pitched to highly stimulated and strenuous efforts, with a determined decision to reach major goals, particularly in new directions. To reach definite security it may be necessary to be sensible with expenditures and all sorts of unjustifiable or showy outlay. Be ready to "go it alone" as help from superiors may be lacking.

A child born on this day may be enterprising and constructive, with much capacity for important projects, but it extravagant and indulgent tendencies may prove a detriment.

Allies Keeping Eye on
Bose, Hindu Quisling

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Capital observers have long wondered how long the love feast between gruff Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and equally gruff John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, will last.

The two blunt-spoken individuals have been on Damon and Pythias terms since Ickes took over the mines last November and gave Lewis the wage contract he could not get from the operators. Then Ickes led the operators into a new contract on the same Miner Leader's terms.

Squawks Ickes, but he recently squawked loudly because the Interior Chief $40 retroactive travel time payment due his miners, and approved by Ickes, had not been made. At a conference with Ickes and the operators, Lewis sounded off in no uncertain terms.

Ickes' temperature rose rapidly and he lit into Lewis, assailing him for being "bull-headed." A report of the meeting was given a wisp of reporters before Ickes thought better of it and killed the announcement for the rest of the press. The love feast very nearly came a cropper.

ALLIED MILITARY AND POLITICAL LEADERS are watching the actions of one of India's leading nationalists with misgivings. He is Subhas Chandra Bose, Cambridge-educated Hindu who is leading 4,000 Indian turncoats against Lord Mountbatten's Allied forces in Burma.

As the Japs hammer at the Imperial sector, Bose keeps up his broadcasts, to India's masses, pounding away on the theme of independence from Britain. Allied authorities wonder just how successful Bose's appeals are throughout India.

They recall that the revolutionist escaped to Japan several years ago after being arrested by the British. In Tokyo he organized a "provisional Indian government" and began his radio talks. The addresses emphasized the allegation that India has nothing to fear from Japan.

Military and civilian authorities in India are watching constantly for signs that India may react to Bose's pleas and use the present emergency to force huge concessions from Great Britain under the threat of aiding Japan.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Transplanting Victory Seedlings Outdoors

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

WHEN ALL danger of frost has passed Victory seedlings can be transplanted into the garden. Seedlings should not be allowed to grow too tall before they are transplanted. Overgrown plants usually have become weakened from overcrowding and such plants suffer a definite setback to growth when transplanted.

When at the proper stage for transplanting, plants should be several inches tall, and should have healthy, strong growing leaves.

Before lifting plants for transplanting, water thoroughly several hours beforehand so the soil will adhere to their roots, as illustrated in the accompanying there at the U. S. Naval Air station in the Torpedo Shop.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Transplanting Victory Seedlings Outdoors

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

WHEN ALL danger of frost has passed Victory seedlings can be transplanted into the garden. Seedlings should not be allowed to grow too tall before they are transplanted. Overgrown plants usually have become weakened from overcrowding and such plants suffer a definite setback to growth when transplanted.

When at the proper stage for transplanting, plants should be several inches tall, and should have healthy, strong growing leaves.

Before lifting plants for transplanting, water thoroughly several hours beforehand so the soil will adhere to their roots, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Lift and transplant the plants one at a time. It is advisable to carry the seedling flat out to the garden and lift a plant at a time at the spot where each is to be set out. Firm the soil around each plant with the fingers, as illustrated. This firming helps to prevent air pockets forming around the roots. Transplant as rapidly as possible to protect the plant's roots against drying out from exposure to sun or wind.

Young plants can be transplanted with greater safety on a cloudy day. If this is not convenient, then set them out late in the afternoon.

Flight Officer Edwin Swayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Swayer, surprised home folks Friday evening when he arrived to spend a 21-day furlough at home. Flight Officer Swayer, who is a veteran of the North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns, is home "on location" and will report at Atlantic City May 29 for re-classification. He began his journey home from Naples, Italy, by plane on his birthday, April 10. From Naples he flew to Casablanca, and from there by boat to New York. He was sent to Ft. Ben Harrison, Indiana, and was furloughed home from there. While his family had hopes that he might receive a furlough home, his arrival was a pleasant surprise as no word had been received from Edwin since early in April. Edwin has been overseas since July, 1943, and has been in the service for almost two years; this being his first furlough.

PENSIVE NOT AS GOOD AS DERBY, EXPERTS THINK

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8—Pensive is going to be forced to prove it. Approximately 70,000 spectators saw him win the Kentucky Derby and thrilled to one of the greatest horse races ever run anywhere, but somehow few believe that he was as good as he ran Saturday and they want him to repeat before they will accept the Calumet star as a true champion.

BREWERS ADD TO LEAD AT COST OF RED BIRDS

By International News Service
The Milwaukee Brewers today increased their American Association lead to three and one-half games by virtue of yesterday's double win over the Columbus Red Birds, 8 to 4 and 7 to 6.

With Casey Stengel, the Brewers' new manager, watching from the bench, and 10,044 shivering fans in the Brewer stadium, Charlie Sproul was given five runs to work on in the third inning of the nightcap, but he was driven out in the fifth when the Birds tied it up. Richard Hearn yielded another marker in the sixth but Jack Farmer hurried two-hit ball the rest of the way and was credited with the victory.

The Brewers chalked up the deciding tally on a free pass with the bases loaded. Red Barrett was the losing hurler.

In the opener Julie Acosta breezed to his third win of the season against no defeats. The Red Birds tallied three of their four runs on Milwaukee errors.

Indianapolis suffered its seventh and eighth consecutive defeats at St. Paul, yesterday, when the Saints captured both ends of a double header, 4 to 2 and 6 to 3.

The Minneapolis Millers, behind the excellent pitching of Vernon Curtis and Loren Bain, swept a twin bill from the Louisville Colonels, 4 to 0 and 2 to 0.

In the opener Curtis set back the Colonels with seven hits and in the nightcap Bain allowed three scattered safeties.

The Toledo Mud Hens chalked up the largest score of the season against Kansas City, winning the second game of a double header, 18 to 4. The Hens collected a total of 20 hits off four Kansas City hurlers.

In the opener, the Blues set back the Mud Hens, 2 to 0, with Fred Pepper allowing the Hens three hits for his second shutout of the campaign.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

FEAR DISTRIBUTION

JUSTIFIABLE fear should govern a declarer's tactics if one of his opponents had made an overcall during the auction in spite of the fact that very few high cards were out. It is a certainty that great suit length was the chief basis of the overcall, and consequently there is great shortness in the hand of that bidder's partner. The declarer should in such cases consider the possibility of a ruff by the partner of that bidder to be a very distinct danger, and should guard against it.

which could be used for ruffing them, he studied no further. Winning the first trick with the heart A, he led the heart 3 and ruffed it with dummy's spade 5. East gave him two shocks in succession. He over-ruffed with the 8 and led back the club 5, which West ruffed with the spade 3, setting the contract. He, of course, locked the stable after the horse was gone, by ruffing the next heart lead with the spade J, but the beans were already spilled. South should have realized the great danger of West having so many hearts, when he had overcalled at the two level while vulnerable. Had he done so, he would have dropped trumps in two rounds, ruffed one heart in dummy, discarded two hearts on diamond tops, and then tried the club finesse. When it worked, he would have taken all the tricks.

Farm Bureau Asks County Parks As Soldier Memorials

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO PROVIDE FUNDS

Antiquated War Weapons Declared Lacking In Necessary Purpose

FORESTS GAIN FAVOR

State Organization Says All Parts Of State Have Adequate Sites

Establishment of natural memorials such as scenic park sites and forests—instead of bronze statues and battle relics—for World War II heroes, is being advocated by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. Pickaway county's Bureau sanctions the program.

The Bureau advises asking the next Ohio legislature to set aside a "very substantial sum" to help counties establish natural memorials.

The Bureau urges that Ohioans memorialize their war heroes in a more fitting and socially enduring way than by placing worn-out and antiquated pieces of previously destructive war weapons over beautiful town commons and public squares. In addition to these, community patriotism and pride in honor of its heroes have been responsible for placing in public places a lot of bronze or other sort of statues and memorials that grotesquely memorialize heroes' sacrifices.

It is believed that the living soldier would desire "some thing that takes him into the creative realms of the real purposes of life itself. In this connection, the Bureau asks:

"What could be a more fitting memorial to his memory than the preservation for all time of the finest forest in the country or the most beautiful and scenic park site? Memorials of this sort are something that man cannot make. 'Only God can make a tree'—or a flower or a river. These continuously accrue to the spiritual and social idealism of all generations. No matter what the stresses and strains of life may be, there is found joy and peace in the beauty of our natural creations."

The state Bureau says there are still many beautiful forests in every county that could be set aside as war memorials.

Senator Kenneth (No-Mountaineer) McKellar is determined to call me and make me tell where I got the contents of the Kellems letters. The gentleman from Tennessee, who recently spent 45 minutes haranguing his senatorial colleagues about the evils of the Washington Merry-Go-Round, wants me called as the first witness.

Senator Clyde Reed, Republican of Kansas, disagrees. "You'll only make a martyr of Pearson," Reed argued in private talks with his colleagues.

Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican of Michigan, agrees with Reed. They want to call chief censor Byron Price as the main witness, would even prefer that McKellar did not serve on the investigating sub-committee. However, since McKellar is chairman of the full committee, he has the power to appoint himself chairman of the sub-committee and he insists on doing so.

KNOX AND IKES

Not many outside the cabinet realized that a genuine friendship existed between Secretary of the Interior Ickes and the late Secretary of Navy Knox. In fact, Ickes had something to do with getting Knox appointed to the cabinet.

Their friendship dated back to the fact that they both came from Chicago, both have fought the Chicago Tribune, both were Teddy Roosevelt Bull-Moosers. They disagreed on a lot of things, rowed over a lot of things, but respected and liked each other.

Shortly before Knox died, an under-cover move was launched inside the Navy to oust Ickes as president of the Petroleum Reserves Corporation, which also includes the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy.

Undersecretary of the Navy Forrestal initiated the campaign against Ickes and tipped off Undersecretary of War Patterson to make a motion at the next meeting of the Petroleum Reserves Corporation that Ickes be ousted and a naval officer become president instead.

Patterson made the move in the meeting. But instead of the Navy picking up the cue, as was expected, Frank Knox sat mum. Apparently he didn't want to move against his old friend Ickes.

NOTE—In proposing the Arabian pipeline deal, Ickes was largely acting for the Navy, which wanted U. S. oil companies to have a stake in Near Eastern oil as a future reserve. Ickes caught a barrage of criticism as a result, plus no thanks from Undersecretary Forrestal.

Farm Bureau Asks County Parks As Soldier Memorials

LEGISLATURE TO BE ASKED TO PROVIDE FUNDS

Antiquated War Weapons Declared Lacking In Necessary Purpose

FORESTS GAIN FAVOR

State Organization Says All Parts Of State Have Adequate Sites

Establishment of natural memorials such as scenic park sites and forests—instead of bronze statues and battle relics—for World War II heroes, is being advocated by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. Pickaway county's Bureau sanctions the program.

The Bureau advises asking the next Ohio legislature to set aside a "very substantial sum" to help counties establish natural memorials.

The Bureau urges that Ohioans memorialize their war heroes in a more fitting and socially enduring way than by placing worn-out and antiquated pieces of previously destructive war weapons over beautiful town commons and public squares. In addition to these, community patriotism and pride in honor of its heroes have been responsible for placing in public places a lot of bronze or other sort of statues and memorials that grotesquely memorialize heroes' sacrifices.

It is believed that the living soldier would desire "some thing that takes him into the creative realms of the real purposes of life itself. In this connection, the Bureau asks:

"What could be a more fitting memorial to his memory than the preservation for all time of the finest forest in the country or of the most beautiful and scenic park site? Memorials of this sort are something that man cannot make. 'Only God can make a tree'—or a flower or a river. These continuously accrue to the spiritual and social idealism of all generations. No matter what the stresses and strains of life may be, there is found joy and peace in the beauty of our natural creations."

The state Bureau says there are still many beautiful forests in every county that could be set aside as war memorials.
